Lower Extremity Functional Scale (LEFS)

Source: Binkley JM, Stratford PW, Lott SA, Riddle DL. The Lower Extremity Functional Scale (LEFS): scale development, measurement properties, and clinical application. North American Orthopaedic Rehabilitation Research Network. Phys Ther. 1999 Apr;79(4):371-83.

The Lower Extremity Functional Scale (LEFS) is a questionnaire containing 20 questions about a person's ability to perform everyday tasks. The LEFS can be used by clinicians as a measure of patients' initial function, ongoing progress and outcome, as well as to set functional goals.

The LEFS can be used to evaluate the functional impairment of a patient with a disorder of one or both lower extremities. It can be used to monitor the patient over time and to evaluate the effectiveness of an intervention.

Scoring instructions

The columns on the scale are summed to get a total score. The maximum score is 80.

Interpretation of scores

- ③ The lower the score the greater the disability.
- ③ The minimal detectable change is 9 scale points.
- ③ The minimal clinically important difference is 9 scale points.
- ③ % of maximal function = (LEFS score) / 80 * 100 Performance:
- ③ The potential error at a given point in time was +/- 5.3 scale points.
- ③ Test-retest reliability was 0.94.
- ③ Construct reliability was determined by comparison with the SF-36. The scale was found to be reliable with a sensitivity to change superior to the SF-36.

We may use your medical history to decide what treatment is best for you. We will consult with your doctor and send reports about your treatment to the doctor. We do this to provide the most appropriate care for you.

Different personnel in our office may share information about you and disclose information to people who do not work in our office in order to coordinate your care, such as telephoning your doctor and getting needed information. Family members and other health care providers may be part of your physical therapy outside this office and that may require us to provide information about you.

- For Payment. We may need to use or disclose health information about you in order to obtain payment for our health care services. For example, we may bill your health plan or insurance company or other third party for your treatment in this clinic.
